Mazlita is a BSc and MPhil. Computer Science graduate from the University College London and Birkbeck College of the University of London respectively, specialising in Web Data Mining. She has written several research papers in this area that appeared in renowned international journals and conferences. Previously, Mazlita spent 11 years in London, studying and working at various companies, mainly providing consultancy work in IT and Web Data Mining.

Early last year, she exited a start-up she co-founded in 2015, where she and her team developed a mobile-app called Recite, a social-based AI-Quran mastering platform, with userbase in Malaysia and Indonesia. Altimet, a popular Malaysian singer-rapper took over her place at Recite. After Recite, she co-founded another startup called Unoya Tech. At Unoya, she oversees the development of solutions for digital learning initiatives working closely with Google Malaysia in utilising various Google educational technology and service architecture.

Mazlita has been a corporate trainer since 2011 and has a vast experience in teaching and training in various Computer Applications software such as Microsoft Office, Google Apps, Crystal Report and Tableau. Her current and previous clients include The Center for Applied Data Science, Pejabat Setiausaha Negeri Pahang (SUK Pahang), Sony, MATRADE, Tabung Haji Travels, Kementerian Kesihatan Malaysia, Petronas Chemicals Methonal Labuan, Unitar International University, Bank Muamalat Malaysia Berhad, KEMAS, HSBC Bank, ILSAS (TNB), UEM Group, Campac (Penang), Indah Water Consortium, Suruhanjaya Komunikasi & Multimedia Malaysia (SKMM), Petronas Carigali, JKR, Sapura Resources, UEM Group, DKSH, Japanese Tobacco International and Polis Diraja Malaysia (PDRM), SUK Pulau Pinang, Philip Morris International, SCOPE Sarawak and many others.

Additionally, she works closely with a Google Premier Partner in Malaysia as their Principal Training Consultant where she conducts Change Management training using G Suite for their clients in Malaysia and Thailand.

She uses her experience as a mentor to various start-ups and her experience as the President of a business networking group to connect and engage with participants in her class. Mazlita is passionate about disseminating knowledge and advocates knowledge sharing and active communications and participations in her class to ensure optimum participants' engagements.
